

Argos automatically keeps track of all client communications, providing an accurate reference guide.

But don't just take our word for it.

"You save so much time by using the Communications system because it all happens automatically. The easy to use field replacements make this the most flexible document generation system I have been involved with!"

"We utilise the communications to the max. It's great having all correspondence saved on the client's account."

communications management

Fast access and account status recording...

Another unique Argos key benefit.

All external dealings you have with your clients will each have a unique purpose (a communication type) which could include overdue letters, year end IR15 advices, welcome and thank you letters, marketing letters, deposit certificates, interest/maturity advices and lease invoices...all of which are contained within the Argos system.

- Automatic document tracking. The system will automatically keep track of every communication on an account you have had with a client that is generated through the software. You'll never lose or misplace a communication ever again. You will also enjoy fast and easy searching for them all, allowing you to efficiently review them.
- Instant Account Snapshot. A snap shot of all account details is taken whenever a communication is generated. You can reprint any communication at any time which will always contain all the original account details. Account queries are easy to resolve even if they are a couple of months later, because you have recorded the exact information about the account at that time.
